Free OLLI (OSHER LIFELONG LEARNING INSTITUTE) Lecture: NEW "Daughter of the Holocaust"

Irene Jaffa was born in a displaced persons' camp in Lamperthyme, Germany in the immediate aftermath of World War II. At two years of age, she and her parents immigrated to Detroit, Michigan where she was raised in a community of survivors from Europe. She is a graduate of Michigan State University and has spoken for many years about the emotional and long-lasting effects of her parents' journey. Her mother is 95 years old and lives in Jacksonville.

Irene begins her story before World War II describing her mother's life in Poland living in a household with seven children. She continues by telling of her parents' amazing survival in the forest and countryside of Eastern Europe and Siberia. It is a reminder of incredible tragedy and cruelty that must never be forgotten as long as genocide still happens somewhere in the world.
